PREFACE

This publication presents a statistical summary of agricultural exports made under food aid programs authorized by Public Law 83-480, the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended, and Mutual Security (AID) programs. It covers 19 fiscal years, 1955 through 1973, and updates 12 Years of Achievement under Public Law 480, ERS Foreign 202, issued in November 1967.

Exports are reported by commodity group, value, and quantity, when possible, for each year of the 19-year period. The value of exports by country is shown for each year and for the total period. This report adds two new statistical series on exports under food aid programs: (1) country by commodity group and (2) commodity group by country.

Exports under credit sales programs--the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) export credit sales program and Export-Import Bank loans and loan guarantees--are reported by commodity group and by country.

Statistics on exports under the barter provisions of P.L. 480 have been included in commercial sales for dollars and excluded from exports under Government programs beginning January 1, 1963, as such sales were considered to be equivalent to cash sales.

This publication was prepared under the general direction of Robert L. Tontz, Program Leader, Statistics Program Area, Foreign Demand and Competition Division, Economic Research Service.

Louise E. Stanton, Statistical Assistant, was responsible for developing the data base and the research required for updating the complete Government Programs Statistical Series. Linda C. Myers did most of the statistical tabulations and calculations. Betty Case with the help of Nina M. Brandt and Thelma J. Carpenter designed the system and programmed the information for automatic data processing.

BACKGROUND

Public Law 480 is the basic legal authority for sharing the abundant agricultural production of the United States with the developing countries that have food deficits. Since its inception in July 1954, P.L. 480 has evolved from a temporary measure of surplus removal into a major tool in the world struggle for freedom from hunger and an effective instrument to stimulate economic development and support of U.S. foreign policy goals.

The Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 extended P.L. 480 legislation through December 31, 1977. The Food for Peace Act of 1966 substantially amended the basic legislation and authorized a comprehensive program which emphasized agricultural self-help by recipient countries. It also called upon other highly developed countries to contribute toward bringing the world food supply into better balance with a rapidly increasing world population. As a result of the 1966 amendments, P.L. 480 food aid was no longer limited to surplus commodities, but encompassed commodities determined to be available by the Secretary of Agriculture. Another important feature of the 1966 legislation was a provision for transition from sales for foreign currencies to sales for dollars on credit terms.

Food has been furnished under P.L. 480 to hundreds of millions of people, not only to meet emergency situations, but also to supply nutritional needs and thereby contribute to the economic development of recipient countries. Loans to recipient countries for economic development have been the largest single use of foreign currencies generated under the program. Commodities sold under long-term dollar credits have generated local currencies which recipient governments apply to economic development.

Receipts from sales for local currencies used to pay U.S. expenses abroad, dollar payments of principal and interest on long-term credits, and barter procurement abroad for U.S. agencies have all had a favorable effect on the U.S. balance-of-payments position.

During fiscal years 1955-73, $22.3 billion worth of U.S. farm products were exported under P.L. 480. An additional $2.4 billion shipped under Mutual Security (AID) programs brought the total to $24.7 billion, 22 percent of total agricultural exports during the period. These exports assisted in the reduction of Government-owned inventories. The transition from concessional term sales to dollar sales, as well as the use of foreign currencies for market development programs, have contributed to growth in U.S. commercial sales.

At times, certain U.S. price-supported agricultural commodities cannot compete in foreign markets without some form of compensation to the exporter who purchases at the higher domestic price and sells in foreign markets at a lower world price. This compensation during 1955-73 consisted of export payments in cash or in kind, or sales from CCC inventory at competitive world prices. Minimum resort to export payments has been a guiding principle in the design of U.S. price-support programs for several years. An average of 27 percent of dollar exports of U.S. farm products received this form of assistance in 1955-73. The export payment program was suspended during fiscal 1973. Since then, only commodities contracted prior to that date have been exported under this program.

PROGRAM SUMMARIES

The programs summarized below and the legal authorization cited for P.L. 480 programs are those under the Act as amended by the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973.

P.L. 480

Title I--Sales for Dollars on Credit Terms

Prior to the 1966 amendments to P.L. 480, most food aid to friendly foreign nations fell under Title I of P.L. 480. U.S. Government financing was provided for sales of agricultural commodities to foreign importers and foreign government agencies, as well as for sales by private U.S. businessmen to private trade entities in friendly foreign governments. The 1966 amendments changed the legislation by combining the old Title I, sales for local currency, and the old Title IV, sales for dollar credits, into a new Title I which authorized both sales for local currencies and for dollar terms. The 1966 legislation also authorized sales for payment in local currencies on credit terms for dollars, or for currencies convertible to dollars.

The 1966 amendments also required that P.L. 480 and Mutual Security (AID) programs be closely linked to efforts to increase food production in recipient countries. It was stipulated that "whenever practicable" an initial payment, usually 5 percent of the purchase price, be obtained--either in dollars or convertible local currency--for any agricultural commodities sold under Title I.

Exports of agricultural commodities under long-term dollar credit agreements with foreign governments and later with private trade entities in foreign countries began in fiscal 1962 and totaled $3.6 billion through fiscal 1973. This program enables countries which have reached an appropriate stage in economic development to become dollar customers of the United States and to conserve their national capital and manpower resources for further economic advances. Proceeds from the sale of agricultural commodities in the recipient country are used to finance economic development projects in the country, and the increasing dollar payments to the United States have a beneficial effect on the U.S. balance of payments.

Title I--Sales for Foreign Currencies

This provision authorized the sale of U.S. agricultural commodities under Government-to-government agreements with friendly countries, with payment in the currency of the recipient country. Currencies generated under this provision have been used for loans and grants to the recipient country to further economic development, as contributions toward U.S. agricultural market development, and for a wide range of research, educational, and defense-support activities. In addition, whenever possible, the costs of U.S. overseas expenses are paid from foreign currencies generated under this provision of P.L. 480. These foreign currencies are also sold to U.S. citizens for travel and other purposes. These U.S. uses result in a direct dollar saving and a positive benefit to the U.S. balance of payments. The United States also benefits indirectly from the many other activities to which contributions are made from foreign currency holdings.

The Act stipulated that sales for local currency be progressively replaced by dollar credit sales, with this transition to be completed by December 31, 1971. The last agreement for local currency was made on June 28, 1971. All of the Title I agreements signed since then have been for convertible local currency credit or dollar credit.

The sales for foreign currency provision was the major outlet for food aid under P.L. 480 between 1955 and the end of fiscal 1973. During the period, 452 agreements were signed with 53 countries and exports totaled $12.3 billion, nearly two-thirds of all P.L. 480 exports during the period.

Title II--Foreign Donations

Title II provides authority for the donations program of P.L. 480. The 1966 amendments combined the commodity donations provisions of the old Title II and Title III into a new Title II. Title II authorizes donations of food for alleviating famine and for other urgent or extraordinary relief; for combating malnutrition especially in children; for providing economic and community development in friendly developing areas; and for assisting needy persons and nonprofit school lunch and preschool feeding programs abroad. The assistance to needy persons is being increasingly directed toward community and other self-help activities designed to alleviate the need for such assistance. Through the people-to-people assistance, Title II has a direct relationship to the utilization of democratic institutions and development pursuant to Title IX of the Foreign Assistance Act.

During 1955-73, food aid donations accounted for one-fifth of all P.L. 480 shipments and were distributed to millions of needy people in more than 100 countries. School lunch and child-feeding programs were the major recipients of these donations. In recent years, emphasis has been on improving the nutritional quality of donations. Since 1960, donation programs have stressed the use of food as part payment of wages in self-help community activities.

Donated commodities are distributed through three types of cooperative sponsors: friendly governments, international agencies, and U.S. voluntary agencies. Insofar as practical, all commodities donated are clearly indentified--by appropriate markings on each package or container in the language of the recipients--as being furnished by the people of the United States of America.

Government-to-Government Donations for Disaster Relief and Economic Development. This section of Title II authorizes the use of stocks held by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) or the purchase of commodities for disaster relief, school feeding, and community and other development purposes. Under this authority, the United States provides assistance to victims of various disasters, including volcanic eruptions, cyclones, earthquakes, floods, droughts, and civil strife. This authority also requires a transition from straight relief projects to self-help programs using food as part payment of wages for community development projects. Government-to-government donations for disaster relief totaled $1,719 million during the 19 fiscal years covered by this report. Over 112 countries have participated in this program.

Donations Through International Agencies

The World Food Program (WFP) was established in April 1962 by the United Nations (UN) and the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations. The program is financed by voluntary contributions of UN and FAO members in the form of commodities, services and cash. The program operated on an experimental basis for 3 years, 1963-65, with a budget of $94 million, of which the United States pledged $40 million in commodities and about $10 million in ocean freight and transportation. Sixty-eight other countries also provided commodities or cash. U.S. contributions of commodities and ocean freight costs are provided under the authority of Title II of P.L. 480.

The trial period of the World Food Program proved sufficiently successful to warrant placing the program on a continuing basis in 1967. During its 7 years of operation, the WFP has acquired broad experience in the field of food aid and has gained international respect for its achievements. Beginning with an annual target of $33 million for the 3-year trial period 1963-65, pledged targets increased to $170 million annually for the 1973-74 biennium. This goal has been raised to $220 million annually for the 1975-76 period. Since the inception of the World Food Program in 1962, the United States has contributed about $296 million for commodities and ocean freight, or about 22 percent of the total cost of $1,375 million. This provided for 591 economic and social development projects in 88 countries.

Donations Through Voluntary Agencies

Title II also authorizes donations of food to accredited U.S. voluntary agencies for use in assistance to needy people and nonprofit school lunch programs in foreign countries. These donated foods are made available only after requirements for domestic food assistance programs and other high-priority requirements are met.

Donations through voluntary relief agencies amounted to an estimated $2,938 million (net export values) during 1955-73, and were nearly 13 percent of P.L. 480 shipments and 3 percent of total agricultural shipments since the inception of Public Law 480.

Barter

The authority to barter agricultural commodities for overseas procurement of goods and services for U.S. Government agencies located abroad and for foreign-produced materials for stockpiling is provided under the CCC Charter Act; under Section 303, Title III of old P.L. 480; and under other legislation. The fundamental objectives of the barter program were to increase exports of U.S. agricultural commodities, reduce the drain on U.S. gold and dollar holdings, and help achieve U.S. international policy objectives.

Barter transactions prior to 1963 were primarily to acquire foreign-produced strategic materials for U.S. Government stockpiles. Exports for barter were mainly under Title III of the old P.L. 480 and were classified as part of exports under Government-financed programs. Because many of the Government's emergency stockpile needs had been met, the barter program after 1963 emphasized the use of U.S. commodities to procure materials, goods, and services for U.S. Government agencies overseas. These agencies, in turn, reimbursed CCC in dollars for such procurements.

Since 1963, the barter transactions for overseas procurement have been reclassified as commercial exports. Such transactions are considered to be equivalent to cash sales, making a direct contribution to the U.S. balance of payments.

From July 1, 1954, through June 30, 1969, U.S. farm commodities valued at $1,732 million were exported to all areas of the world under Title III, P.L. 480 barter program authority. These shipments accounted for 10 percent of P.L. 480 exports and 2 percent of total agricultural exports during the period.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture on May 3, 1973, temporarily suspended the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) Barter Program. This action was taken because the strong demand for U.S. agricultural commodities made it unnecessary to continue the export incentives provided by the program. However, on May 23 the Department lifted the program for cotton and tobacco for the rest of fiscal year 1973 because the suspension action was unsettling to U.S. export transactions for these commodities. On June 30, 1973, the barter program was resuspended and no contracts have been signed since then.

EXTENSION OF CREDIT

The credits and credit guarantees extended by U.S. Government agencies for agricultural exports during 1955-73 were for relatively short periods and were payable in dollars, plus interest covering the costs of the lending agency. Thus, they resulted in no net financing cost to the Government in the long run. For these reasons, exports under these programs are not reported as exports under "specified Government-financed programs," but are shown separately in this report. The value of purchases made under credits by the CCC and disbursements under loans and guarantees by the Export-Import Bank for exports of agricultural commodities are included in "agricultural exports outside specified Government programs," that is, in "dollar sales" in this series.

CCC Export Credit Sales Program

This program was initiated by the CCC in 1956 under authority contained in the CCC Charter Act. Its purpose was primarily to increase dollar exports of U.S. farm products, to maintain established U.S. markets, and to enable U.S. exporters to meet credit terms offered by other competitive suppliers. This program provides for the financing of exports of U.S. farm products for credit periods up to a maximum of 36 months. Under the initial program, approval of a credit arrangement was contingent upon an assurance of payment by a U.S. bank. On February 17, 1966, the program was revised to permit acceptance of certain foreign bank obligations. Interest is charged at the rate announced each month by CCC and runs for the length of the credit period. Export financing is accomplished by the purchase by CCC of the exporter's accounts receivables.

On February 11, 1965, the CCC credit sales program was revised to provide deferred-payment terms for certain agricultural commodities from private stocks. Export credit arrangements had previously been available only for commodities in CCC inventory or tobacco under loan to CCC. Provision of deferred-payment terms in connection with exports from private stocks has resulted in a substantial increase in exports under the CCC credit sales program, and has made it possible to finance exports of commodities such as beef and dairy breeding cattle, breeding swine, barley, corn, grain sorghums, rye, cotton, eggs (dried, frozen, and canned), canned and frozen poultry, milled and brown rice, tobacco, and wheat.

From the beginning of the program in 1956 through 1973, $3,212.9 million worth of U.S. farm products were exported under credits extended by CCC.

Export-Import Bank Loans and Guarantees

The Export-Import Bank, established in 1934 as an independent agency of the United States, extends credit to foreign buyers for the purchase of certain U.S. agricultural commodities in situations where the financing of such purchases is not available from the usual commercial sources. The Bank must have reasonable assurance of payment of the loan in dollars and must make certain that the loan does not compete with private capital. U.S. commercial banks may participate in Export-Import Bank loans at their own or at the Bank's risk. The period for such loans is usually 1 year.

In January 1963, the Export-Import Bank initiated a system of guarantees against political and/or financial risk. The guarantees are issued by the Bank directly to U.S. commercial banks and those financial institutions undertaking nonrecourse financing of commodity exports. This system of guarantees was designed to encourage commercial banks to provide nonrecourse financing of medium-term export credits and to speed up these transactions by permitting the exporter to deal only with his bank, rather than with the Export-Import Bank in Washington, D.C. It was also designed to create an incentive for banks and other financial institutions to retain in the private sector the paper arising from export transactions.

Exports under Export-Import Bank loans and guarantees totaled $1.4 billion during 1955-1973, with nearly 88 percent consisting of disbursement for cotton exports.

Disbursement under Export-Import Bank loans and guarantees reported in this statistical series include disbursements by the Bank, and disbursements by commercial banks for their own account and risk or under Export-Import Bank guarantees against political and/or financial risk.

AID (Mutual Security Acts P.L. 82-165)

Sales for Foreign Currency, Economic Aid, and Economic Development Loans Authorized by Mutual Security Acts, P.L. 82-165, as Amended, and P.L. 83-665, and by the Foreign Assistance Act, P.L. 87-195.--U.S. foreign aid programs in which agricultural commodities have been exported have been administered since 1948 by the Agency for International Development (AID). Before 1948, such programs fell under International Cooperation Administration (ICA) and other predecessor agencies.

In addition to P.L. 480, a program of sales of agricultural commodities for foreign currency was begun in fiscal 1954 under the authority of an amendment to Public Law 82-165, the Mutual Security Act of 1951. The Mutual Security Act of 1954, as amended (P.L. 665) authorized the operation of the Mutual Security program until September 1961. During this period, programs involving agricultural commodities were principally sales for foreign currency under Section 402 of that Act.

The Foreign Assistance Act, enacted September 4, 1961, does not include a requirement that certain funds be expended for foreign currency sales. Since 1962, the smaller volume of food assistance under AID programs has consisted primarily of agricultural commodities exported under (1) loans or grants under conditions in which the commodity supplied, rather than its use in connection with a specific project, is the primary U.S. concern--"nonproject assistance"--or (2) agricultural commodities exported in connection with activities designed to accomplish specific undertakings--"project assistance."

Beginning in 1964, exports of agricultural commodities under development loans have been included. Development loans, including Alliance for Progress loans for Latin America, are authorized under P.L. 87-195. These loans are designed to promote economic development of less developed countries and areas, with emphasis upon assisting long-range plans and programs to develop economic resources and increase productive capacities. The payment period for development loans may extend to a maximum of 40 years, with annual payments beginning at the expiration of grace periods of varying lengths. Interest charges are made during the grace period, as well as during the payment period.

During fiscal years 1955-73, $2,453 million of U.S. farm products were exported under Mutual Security (AID) programs, mostly during the first 7 years.
